Video Converter Factory If you're looking for a simple and easy to use video converter then Video Converter Factory may just be the tool for you. Whether you need to convert a video file, resize it or make it fit a certain standard, Video Converter Factory can do it all with ease. The only downside is that it does cost $59.99. (3) The easiest way to convert video files. Video Converter Factory Description: Video Converter Factory can be a really useful utility that allows you to convert video files, resize them, and edit them too. It is designed to be an efficient video converter. (4) Why should you convert your files? Why you should convert your videos: If you are converting video for any of the following reasons, it may be worth your time to consider converting your video to keep them out of trouble. Convert videos to view on many devices Media players can have different video codecs, and different sizes, than your video. A lot of media players can't play some of the more obscure media formats. To convert your video to allow it to be played on the most number of devices, try using the best video converter tool that can convert all of your videos at once. Add media to the video Sometimes a media file doesn't play on the video. For instance, you add a picture to the video, but the picture doesn't appear. The most common issue with this is that you added the picture in a different video format than the one the video is in. To add pictures to the video in a different format, try using a video converter tool. Protect a video Sometimes you need to protect your video to stop it from being copied. When you add a video to a DVD or Blu-Ray, for instance, you can add a copy protection to it so that it won't be played

Q: Remove ImageView from top of layout I have a layout that looks like this: I want to remove the first imageView (foreground image). I was using `android:removeView="@+id/imageView1"` but it only removed the imageView, not the layout behind it. How can I remove the layout and the imageView? A: Try `android:layout_above="@+id/imageView1"` That will remove the first imageView from the layout, and will make the other imageView appear on top of it. If you don't want to replace it by another layout, you could use `android:layout_alignParentTop="true"` to make the imageView appear on the top of the layout.
